

BPL is a threat to the HF spectrum and to the national security as it will interfere with critical emergency communications operations.

Present interference laws should be applied to BPL and we should not rush towards this technology simply because it looks on the surface as a way to make internet accessibility available in rural areas.